Geographical indication

Prolom banja

Description: Geographical indication Prolom banja is the second indication of geographical origin registered for services in the Republic of Serbia. This geographical indication refers to the medical services. The mentioned services got their name after the Prolom banja. The registered services relate to physical medicine and rehabilitation for patients suffering from kidney diseases, digestive system disorders, skin diseases, and degenerative forms of rheumatism. The climatic characteristics of Prolom Banja, particularly its elevation of 550–700 meters above sea level and its location surrounded by mid-altitude mountains, have a markedly beneficial effect on the human body.

In addition, the use of therapeutic Prolom mineral water and medicinal mud in the provision of healthcare services imparts the specific characteristics that distinguish these health and rehabilitation services.

Geographical area: Services with the geographical indication Prolom banja are provided exclusively on the defined geographical area of Prolom banja.
